

Feed Source: Ars Technica

ChatGPT's new branching feature is a good reminder that AI chatbots aren't people

Fri, 05 Sep 2025 16:06:55 +0000

Users can explore multiple paths without losing their original chat thread.

The number of mis-issued 1.1.1.1 certificates grows. Here's the latest.

Thu, 04 Sep 2025 22:29:34 +0000

Everything to know about the mishap that threatened to expose millions of users' queries.

Microsoft open-sources Bill Gates' 6502 BASIC from 1978

Thu, 04 Sep 2025 16:56:13 +0000

Historic interpreter taught millions to program on Commodore and Apple computers.

New AI model turns photos into explorable 3D worlds, with caveats

Wed, 03 Sep 2025 21:56:07 +0000

Openly available AI tool creates steerable 3D-like video, but requires serious GPU muscle.

Mis-issued certificates for 1.1.1.1 DNS service pose a threat to the Internet

Wed, 03 Sep 2025 18:40:38 +0000

The three certificates were issued in May but only came to light Wednesday.

OpenAI announces parental controls for ChatGPT after teen suicide lawsuit

Tue, 02 Sep 2025 15:10:26 +0000

Promised protections follow reports of vulnerable users misled in extended chats.

Zuckerberg's AI hires disrupt Meta with swift exits and threats to leave

Fri, 29 Aug 2025 18:02:22 +0000

Longtime acolytes are sidelined as CEO directs biggest leadership reorganization in two decades.

Google warns that mass data theft hitting Salesloft AI agent has grown bigger

Fri, 29 Aug 2025 12:15:00 +0000

Assume all Drift credentials are compromised after Workspace breach, Google says.

High-severity vulnerability in Passwordstate credential manager. Patch now.

Thu, 28 Aug 2025 18:46:43 +0000

Vulnerability can be exploited to gain access to customers' crown jewels